All Women's Stories Amicus Brief

Amici are women from all walks of life who chose to have an abortion.

These signers share personal stories demonstrating that access to abortion is essential for women to be equal participants in society.

Signers sought abortion under varied circumstances, in different stages of life. None regret their decision, and all strongly believe that the right to access an abortion was and is crucial to their ability to define their own existence, determine their own futures, and make the best choices for their families.

Signers explain the barriers that would have prevented them from filing a challenge to an abortion restriction if providers lacked standing to bring such cases, and why they believe providers should continue to serve as plaintiffs.

Kramer Levin Naftalis & Frankel is pro bono counsel for this brief.
